Editorial policy journal "Bulletin of surgery in Kazakhstan"

The journal "Bulletin of Surgery of Kazakhstan" is a peer-reviewed medical publication officially issued by the A.N. Syzganov National Scientific Center for Surgery. Today we can confidently say that the journal has deservedly become an authoritative source of the latest scientific information, ideas, research, analysis and trends in modern areas of surgery.

Currently, for more progressive integration into the world medical science and well-known scientometric platforms, starting in 2018, the Bulletin of Surgery of Kazakhstan is published in English. By the way, the magazine has its own website (vkh.kz), which ensures the submission of articles by authors online. In addition, the publication is well represented on social networks, which allows, among other things, much-needed feedback from the editors.

The journal is well cited and has its own impact factor according to the versions of the Kazakhstan Citation Database and the Russian Scientific Citation Index. Moreover, the Bulletin of Surgery of Kazakhstan is indexed in Google Scholar and CiberLeninka, and an annual subscription to CrossRef allows you to receive DOI for each of the published articles.

Free Access Policy

The journal "Bulletin of Surgery of Kazakhstan" provides direct open access to its content, based on the following principle: free open access to research results contributes to an increase in global knowledge exchange.

Reviewing

A review is an evaluation analysis of a scientific article submitted for publication in the scientific journal "Bulletin of Surgery of Kazakhstan", which is an independent written scientific work performed by specialists of the same subject area to which the author of the reviewed work belongs. In the review, the main thing is the analysis of the advantages and disadvantages of the material, a brief reproduction of the views of the author of the material and the scientifically based attitude of the reviewer to the main ideas of the author, their interpretation in accordance with the beliefs of the reviewer.

The review is mandatory as the main document of the examination carried out by the editorial board to determine the compliance of the material with the scientific and thematic focus of the journal. Reviewing helps the editor-in-chief when deciding on the publication of the work, and the author can help improve his work through communication with the editorial board.

The journal "Bulletin of Surgery of Kazakhstan" adopted a "two-way blind" review (the reviewer and the author do not know each other's names).

Each selected reviewer should be guided by the Code of ethics of scientific publications: confidentiality, objectivity, impartiality, clarity and reasonableness of expressing his opinion, compliance with the principle of recognition of primary sources, inadmissibility of mutual peer review. Reviewers are notified that the manuscripts sent to them are the private property of the authors and relate to information that is not subject to disclosure (disclosure of the information of the article before its publication is possible only with the written consent of the author).

The author of the reviewed work is given the opportunity to get acquainted with the text of the review.

The Editorial Board of the journal has developed recommendations on the structure of the review of a scientific article submitted to the editorial board of the journal "Bulletin of Surgery of Kazakhstan". The reviewer must determine the correspondence of the material presented in the article to the profile and subject of the journal; briefly describe the problem to which the article is devoted; to assess the degree of relevance, originality and significance of the results obtained, compliance with modern achievements of scientific and theoretical thought, accessibility in terms of language, style, location of the material, clarity of tables, diagrams, drawings and formulas, expediency taking into account previously published literature on this issue; to note the positive aspects, as well as the disadvantages of the article.

If there is an indication in the review of an article that it needs to be corrected, then the article is sent to the author for revision.

The article modified (revised) by the author is re-sent for review and is considered in the general order.

An article not recommended for publication by the reviewer is not accepted for reconsideration.

The final decision on the expediency of publishing an article is made by the editorial board of the journal.
